Purpose of the document

This report is part of the regular monitoring of the “Safer Internet Centre Spain 4.0” (SIC-SPAIN 4.0 [1]) project, an initiative co-funded by the European Union through the Digital Europe Programme and coordinated by the Spanish National Cybersecurity Institute (INCIBE).

Its objective is to promote a safer, healthier, and more participatory digital environment for children and adolescents in Spain through awareness-raising, training, research, and engagement with minors, families, professionals, and social agents.

This document provides a structured summary of the initiatives developed by the consortium partners between October and November 2025. Each entry includes essential information about the activity, its type, target audience, relevant links, and impact data, where available.

The purpose of this report is to support the visibility, tracking, and dissemination of the actions carried out.

Participants and collaborators

During this period of SIC-SPAIN 4.0 (October-November 2025), different activities were delivered, including workshops, campaigns, educational programmes, and awareness-raising initiatives by the following consortium partners:

- Spanish National Cybersecurity Institute (INCIBE) – Coordinator
- Spanish Association of Paediatrics (AEPED).
- Association of Communication Users (AUC).
- Empantallados
- EU Kids Online Spain - University of the Basque Country (EHU).
- Federation of Associations for Media Quality (ICMedia).
- Fundación Cibervoluntarios
- Fundación Aprender a Mirar (FAAM) and its affiliated entity Asociación de Consumidores de Medios Audiovisuales de Cataluña (ACMAC).
- Gaptain
- PantallasAmigas
- Plataforma de Infancia
- Rey Juan Carlos University (URJC).
- Complutense University of Madrid (UCM).
- National Institute of Educational Technologies and Teacher Training (INTEF) – Associated entity.

Impact and collaboration

During October and November 2025, the actions promoted by the partners have had a significant impact both in terms of reach and institutional collaboration. A balanced combination of in-person, digital and participatory initiatives has been achieved, targeting a wide range of audiences: students, families, teachers, education and social sector professionals, and even policymakers.

The Aprender a Mirar Foundation (FAAM) and its affiliated entity, the Association of Audiovisual Media Consumers of Catalonia (ACMAC), have carried out a series of initiatives aimed at a broad target group such as teachers and educators. All of this took place within a training space for social action professionals working with children, young people and families.

On the other hand, Captain has launched its AblAN programme, aimed at raising awareness among children and adolescents by reaching them through their families and adults who listen to the programme.

Meanwhile, the Association of Communication Users (AUC) has implemented a new resource via a multiplatform that allows users to tag audiovisual content.

Description of the activities

Duration

Empantallados focuses on parents, teachers and educators, offering articles and downloadable resources addressing concerns about technology and children's screen use. The content covers common questions such as: what is the right age to give a child their first mobile phone, how to respond to possible video game addiction, how much screen time is advisable, and whether smartwatches for children are a suitable option.

Meanwhile, the Spanish Association of Paediatrics (AEPED) is organising the 27th Social Paediatrics Congress, focusing on the different forms of violence that can occur in online environments –such as cyberbullying, grooming, sexting or exposure to inappropriate content– analysing their impact on the physical and emotional health of minors. It includes strategies for prevention and intervention from the paediatric consultation, with a multidisciplinary, family-centred approach.

Over the past two months, INCIBE has carried out several campaigns as awareness resources, all focused on the risks associated with sharing images or personal information. These initiatives were aimed at families, teachers and young people. During this period, the Complutense University of Madrid organised a new congress for professionals, in which children and adolescents took the lead in designing and coordinating a panel dedicated to body image in digital environments.

Closing Remarks

The initiatives featured in this report reflect the active commitment of the SIC-SPAIN 4.0 project partners to promoting a safer, more inclusive, and healthier digital environment for children and young people. The actions carried out between October and November 2025 are just a snapshot of the collaborative work that will continue to unfold in the coming months.

The project, which runs until November 2025, will continue to drive campaigns, educational resources, research, and participatory spaces aimed at strengthening digital citizenship and protecting children's rights in the online environment. With the involvement of public, private, and civil society organisations, SIC-SPAIN 4.0 is working towards a more aware, critical, and resilient digital society.
